Third Declension: Masculine, Feminine, & Neuter

- So far, the only nouns you have dealt with have been of the _____ or _____ declension.
 - The genitive singular of the first declension is _____.
 - The genitive singular of the second declension is _____.
- This chapter introduces the next group of nouns, names (creatively enough) the third declension.
 - The genitive singular of the third declension is _____.
- All nouns in Latin have some gender assigned to them.
 - Nouns of the first declension are predominately _____.
 - Nouns of the second declension are predominately _____ or _____.
 - Nouns of the third declension are predominately _____, _____, or _____.
 - But, in third declension, both masculine and feminine nouns have the same endings.

Masculine/Feminine

	Singular	Plural

Third Declension i-stem

- There are several nouns (and adjectives!) in the third declension that have a few variations
- These variations follow a specific set of rules depending on the gender of the word
 - If the word is masculine or feminine, the noun in i-stem if:
 - The nominative and genitive singulars have the same number of syllables (ie: civis, civis, c. – citizen)
 - The stem ends in two successive consonants (ie: urbs, urbis, f. – city)
 - There are 6 words that follow either one of these rules but are not i-stem.

Mater _____ Frater _____ Pater _____
 Canis _____ Iuvenis _____ Senex _____

- If the word is neuter, the noun is i-stem if:
 - The nominative ends in either -e (mare, maris, n. – sea); -a (animal, animalis, n. – animal); -ar
